

C G JUNG INSTITUTE
OF CHICAGO

FOUNDERS DAY SYMPOSIUM

Healing the Soul in the Age of the Brain*

Saturday, March 28th, 2009 8:45 am to 5:00 pm

This interdisciplinary symposium addresses the mind-body split and the dangers of a single-focused medical-pharmacological model. It addresses the urgent need for a science that acknowledges emotional suffering and mental illness not as just a chemical imbalance in the brain but as a wake-up call for the soul. Participants will learn from experts in the fields of neuroscience, psychoanalysis, spirituality, medicine, social work, and nursing.

Featured Speaker:

- Elio Frattaroli, M.D., author of Healing the Soul in the Age of the Brain: Becoming Conscious in an Unconscious World

Additional Speakers include:

- James Anderson, Ph.D., Chicago Institute for Psychoanalysis
- Virginia Barry, M.D., Chicago Institute for Psychoanalysis
- Lisa Burkhart, Ph.D., R.N, Loyola University Chicago
- Gus Cwik, Psy.D., CG Jung Institute of Chicago
- George Hogenson, Ph.D., President, Jung Institute of Chicago;
- Catharine Jones, LCSW, CG Jung Institute of Chicago.

Featured Speaker:

Elio Frattaroli, M.D., is a psychiatrist and psychoanalyst. He is on the faculty of the Psychoanalytic Center of Philadelphia, where he teaches both psychoanalytic candidates and psychotherapy students. He has a full-time private practice of psychoanalysis and psychotherapy with adults, adolescents and couples in Bala Cynwyd, PA. Among other honors, he has been selected as one of Philadelphia Magazine's "Top Docs" in psychiatry. Dr. Frattaroli studied Shakespeare at Harvard and trained with Bruno Bettelheim at the University of Chicago before turning to medicine. He has written and lectured widely on topics including Shakespeare, Bettelheim, Buddhism, Freud and Jung, neuroscience and psychoanalysis, the mind-body problem and free will, and American culture before and after 9/11. His book, Healing the Soul in the Age of the Brain: Becoming Conscious in an Unconscious World, was first published on September 10, 2001.

Panel Moderators:

George B. Hogenson, Ph.D., LCSW, is a Jungian analyst, and President of the C. G. Jung Institute of Chicago. He holds a Ph.D. in philosophy from Yale University, an M.A. in clinical social work from the University of Chicago, and the diploma in analytical psychology from the Jung Institute of Chicago. A member of the editorial board of The Journal of Analytical Psychology, he is the author of Jung's Struggle with Freud and numerous articles and book chapters on Jung and analytical psychology. His research focuses on the emergence of psychological phenomena from complex dynamic systems.

Catharine J. Jones, LCSW, M. Div., is on the faculty and is past president of the C. G. Jung Institute of Chicago. She has presented nationally and internationally on topics of training, issues of transference and counter-transference, and the cultural complex of racism. She is involved in a long time exploration of affect regulation with a focus on body and trauma. She is in private practice of in Evanston and Chicago.

Panel Members:

James W. Anderson, Ph.D., is a faculty member at the Chicago Institute for Psychoanalysis and Editor of the Annual of Psychoanalysis. Clinical Professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Northwestern University, he teaches courses such as personality psychology and the psychology of film. In his research he is a specialist in the study of the individual life. Dr. Anderson has published psychobiographical papers on William and Henry James, Woodrow Wilson, Frank Lloyd Wright, and Edith Wharton. He is in private practice as a clinical psychologist and psychoanalyst.

Virginia Barry, M.D., is a psychiatrist and psychoanalyst in private practice in Chicago. She received her medical degree from the University of Illinois College of Medicine (1974), and completed psychiatric training at Michael Reese Hospital (1977). Since 1981 she has pursued her interests in understanding primitive mental states and the shifting organizations of the mind. She is a member of the faculty at The Chicago Institute for Psychoanalysis where she has taught courses on dreams, on special problems in psychoanalysis, and on the integration of neuroscience and psychoanalysis. Her publications reflect all these interests. In her spare time she writes fiction.

Lisa Burkhart, PhD, RN, Assistant Professor, Marcella Niehoff School of Nursing, Loyola University Chicago. Dr. Burkhart's area of study is spirituality and informatics. In the area of spirituality, her past research involved empirically deriving a conceptual framework for spiritual leadership in Catholic health care, a grounded theory of spiritual care in nursing practice, and tool development and psychometric testing of an instrument to measure spiritual care in nursing practice. Current research is in developing an intervention with nursing students to teach spiritual care and a reflect process. In the area of informatics, Dr. Burkhart authored spiritual, religious, and ethics standardized nursing terminology, which is part of the database infrastructure for health care documentation.

August J. Cwik, Psy.D. is a clinical psychologist, hypnotherapist and Jungian analyst in private practice in the Chicago area. He is a member of the Chicago Society of Jungian Analysts and the Interregional Society of Jungian Analysts, and faculty member of the Institute.
